PROCEEDINGS

(January 6, 2015)

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Good morning, Counsel. Can everyone hear me? This is Greg Grimsal in New Orleans.

Let me begin by stating we are on the record. I would like to begin by noting that New Mexico's motion to amend the case management order is going to be granted. So let me start with a roll call of the parties to make sure we have all counsel of record on the line.

Is counsel for Texas present, please?

MR. SOMACH: Yes, Your Honor. This is Stuart Somach.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Thank you, Mr. Somach.

Counsel for New Mexico?

MS. BOND: Yes, Your Honor. This is Sarah Bond, counsel of record for New Mexico.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Thank you, Ms. Bond. Let me take the opportunity to note that your direct dial phone number will be corrected on the amended distribution list that will appear on the case management order that I will issue after this conference. I also apologize for misspelling Attorney General Balderas' last name. That, too, will be corrected. Please convey our congratulations to him on his election.

Anyone else present for New Mexico, Ms. Bond?

MS. BOND: Yes, Your Honor. With me is Stephen Farris as well as Amy Haas, who is both general counsel and acting director of the Interstate Stream Commission. I believe on the phone may be Lisa Thompson and Jeff Wechsler also.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Okay. By the way, I'm going to have to -- sorry. Go ahead.

MS. BOND: If I could, Your Honor, I had failed to note, but the nomenclature of the e-mail for the attorney general follows the spelling of the name. So the H-B-A-L-D-E-R-A-S, as in Sam, should also be changed on his "nmag" e-mail as well.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Got it. Got it.

MS. BOND: Thank you so much.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Noted. My pleasure. Thank you.

By the way, Counsel, when you speak, for the benefit of the court reporter, I will ask that you identify yourselves so our court reporter knows who you are.

Is counsel for Colorado on the phone?

MR. WALLACE: Yes, Your Honor. This is Chad Wallace from the Colorado Attorney General's Office. With me also are Karen Kwon and Preston Hartman, also from the AG's Office, and Mike Sullivan, the deputy director of the Colorado Division of Water.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Thank you, Mr. Wallace.

Is counsel for the United States on, please?

MR. DUBOIS: Good morning, Your Honor. This is James Dubois for the United States. Also on the line are Lee

MS. O'CONNELL: This is Ann and I am on. I am from the Solicitor General's Office at DOJ.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Thanks, Ann. What's your last name, please?

MS. O'CONNELL: O'Connell.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Thank you.

MR. SOMACH: Your Honor, this is Stuart Somach for the record. I should mention that I have others with me. I would like to introduce them to you. I have Andrew Hitchings, Bob Hoffman, and Francis Goldsberry. I apologize for not introducing them when you called my name.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Thank you, Mr. Somach.

Are there any other counsel on the line for any nonparties?

MR. STEIN: Your Honor, this is Jay Stein representing the City of Las Cruces, New Mexico. The city has appeared as an amicus curiae in several motions and in briefing.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Thank you, Mr. Stein.

MR. BROCKMANN: This is Jim Brockmann also with Mr. Stein representing the City of Las Cruces.

MS. DAVIDSON: Your Honor, this is Tessa Davidson with New Mexico Pecan Growers, observing only.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Right. Thank you. Anyone else?

Counsel, let me begin by introducing myself and my staff who are present. I'm Greg Grimsal. I've been appointed Special Master in this matter. I have with me two folks from my firm who I plan to engage as clerks in this matter, Mr. Patrick M. Shelby, he goes by -- actually, I'm going to ask both of them to make their appearances and introduce themselves on the record.

MR. SHELBY: Good morning. This is Patrick M. Shelby and, as Greg mentioned, I go by Rick.

MS. GRABILL: Good morning, Counsel. This is Meredith Grabill.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Counsel, I'm moving down the agenda. On Item B, I wanted to touch base on that. I have informed everyone my thoughts about appropriate hourly rates.

Let me mention that the hourly rates that I set out in the case management order were not arbitrary. I picked some data points in order to be able to set those rates as I did. One of the data points is the special master guide that special masters receive from the Supreme Court, which sets a range of rates from $250 to $490 an hour.

I note further that the special master in Kansas v. Nebraska, which is No. 126 Original, charged $490 an

I would note that my standard hourly rate is $450 and the standard rate for Mr. Shelby and Ms. Grabill are $350 an hour, so we have bumped those rates down for this matter. Are there any comments or discussion on that before we proceed?

Okay. Let me mention further, as I indicated at the outset, these proceedings are public record. We have a court reporter here working on the transcript. The process I anticipate is that my firm will front the cost for the transcript. After a hearing or a conference, I will post to the record a notice of filing of the transcript.

The parties or anyone else who wants a transcript will have a window -- I believe that window is 90 days -- to order it directly from the court reporter. After that time the transcript will be posted of record. The court reporter's fees that will be billed to my firm and paid by my firm will be part of the costs that will be submitted for reimbursement down the road.

Moving on to Item C, the procedure I anticipate for application for approval and payment of fees and expenses, I've been advised by the Court that they are not going to want to hear from me more often than every six months. So I would anticipate filing a motion with the Supreme Court for an allowance of fees and disbursements every six months. So since the order of appointment was November 3, I would imagine somewhere around May 3 we will be filing a motion with the Court for fees and expenses that would cover the court reporter and similar fees.

One question, which of course I haven't resolved and I'm interested in hearing the parties' thoughts on this, would be the percentages that each party would be responsible for paying. I hasten to emphasize we are in no particular hurry on that issue. If you have reached some sort of agreement on that, it would be nice to hear it now. If not, you can certainly have further discussions on that among yourselves and advise me of any agreement you come to.

I do note there is a motion to intervene by the Elephant Butte Irrigation District and, of course, that may affect the percentages that you agree on. Has there been any discussion on that point to date?

MR. SOMACH: Your Honor, this is Stuart Somach. I had a brief conversation with the United States, who of course intervened as a plaintiff, but I don't know that we came to any conclusions. I think we did assume -- and this may not be an agreed upon assumption -- that at least you had an initial division of 50/50 between the plaintiff and defendants. I'm not sure that that's necessarily agreed to, but that was as far as the discussion that I had with the United States went.

MS. BOND: Your Honor, this is Sarah Bond for New Mexico. I spoke briefly with both counsel of record for the United States as well as counsel for Texas and we batted around some ideas about this, thinking it would be best if we could come to some agreement.

It was our position that we sorta didn't start this and we would -- and also given that we are in the unusual position of having an intervenor plaintiff in this case, the United States, who has suggested in their reply to our motion to dismiss that its complaint should stand alone even if the Court were to dismiss Texas' complaint, suggesting that they have different claims and independent claims from Texas, in light of that fact, we would suggest that the cost be split 35 percent to each of the two plaintiffs, 30 percent for New Mexico, zero for Colorado since they have no claims against them.

The United States suggested that just because we didn't start it, we should bear an equal burden, but it was our position that it seems fair to us, of course, as a defendant. And, of course, if we are found liable in any way, we would be liable for damages, and so you could take it out of our hide at Anyway, that's our opening request. the end.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Well, may I suggest that it would be worth the parties' while to attempt to come to an agreement on that point rather than submitting it to me for a resolution. As I say, A, there's no hurry; B, there's another intervention pending. So may I suggest that the parties after Obviously, if you can't agree, let me know about that and we will deal with it at that time. It seems highly likely to me the parties are going to be able to come to some sort of agreement.

Is that fair?

MS. BOND: Yes, Your Honor.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Okav.

MR. WALLACE: Your Honor, this is Chad Wallace for I just want to advise the other parties that the Colorado. State of Colorado does intend to at least participate on this level, so we would like also to join in any talks regarding fee splitting just to be kept in the loop.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: So ordered. Any other discussion on the percentages before we move on?

Moving on to the rules governing proceedings, as I think you all know, Supreme Court rules provide that the form of pleadings and motions prescribed by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure are to be followed, but otherwise the rules and the Federal Rules of Evidence are only guides to the In this matter the Federal Rules of Civil proceedings. apply. Let me state that at this point, as a threshold matter, I don't see where anything like Rule 26 disclosures are appropriate and they certainly don't apply at this time.

Any other questions about that?

MS. BOND: No, Your Honor.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Yes.

MS. BOND: No. This is Sarah Bond. We didn't have any other questions. I think given the preliminary discussions among counsel, we anticipate that we will be able to work things out in a pretty amicable and professional fashion among the counsel of record.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Great. Thank you, Ms. Bond.

Moving on to the filing of papers, one of the things we have to resolve is the manner in which the parties shall serve individuals on the distribution list attached as Appendix A. I have indicated that the parties should try to come to some sort of agreement as to the number of papers you want to serve on each other. Have the parties had any discussions about that point? We can certainly have the discussion now.

MS. BOND: We have not, Your Honor.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Any thoughts on that? I know, Ms. Bond, you have been involved in a couple of these before. Any standard practices on the number of copies you served to other parties?

MS. BOND: Your Honor, I think the parties are all well-versed in this kind of procedure. Now that everybody does things pretty much electronically, it's just a matter of whether the parties want to have everything sent electronically and/or hard copies. I'm old enough that I kind of like a couple of hard copies, but one is adequate because now with scanning and other electronic facilitation, the number of copies is likely to be created after the counsel — assisting counsel will be e-mailed.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Right.

MS. BOND: So then the question almost becomes who wants the e-mails. We just haven't had a chance to discuss that.

MR. SOMACH: Again, this is Stuart Somach. We are certainly satisfied with an electronic copy. I don't know if we need anything further. The question I would raise would be just simply in terms of date of service for purposes of responding, making sure -- one of the problems, of course, with electronic copies is tracing exactly when something was sent and so forth, but that would be the only reason perhaps for being redundant and having electronic copy plus a hard copy, and then the service date would be from the date of the mailing of the hard copy.

That's the only issue that I see. We are certainly comfortable with electronic copies and certainly just

1 11:18 2 11:18 3 11:18 4 11:18 5 11:18 6 11:18 7 11:18 8 11:18 9 11:18 10 11:18 11 11:18 12 11:18 13 11:18 14 11:18 15 11:18 16 11:18 17 11:19 18 11:19 19 11:19 20 11:19 21 11:19 22 11:19 23 11:19 24 11:19 25 11:19 mailing one copy. We don't need multiple copies of documents.

MR. DUBOIS: This is Jim Dubois. I think that's been pretty much the norm in the cases that I've been involved in is that most of it is electronic except for things like exceptions and stuff that's filed with the Court itself.

MS. BOND: Do you guys want to have us serve everybody on your team or just counsel of record and then you can do an e-mail to your people?

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Ms. Bond?

MS. BOND: Yes, sir.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: I'm sorry. I wanted to make sure that was you for the court reporter.

MS. BOND: I apologize, Your Honor. That was Sarah Bond.

MR. SOMACH: This is Stuart Somach. Just serving me is sufficient.

MS. O'CONNELL: This is Ann O'Connell. The "supremectbriefs" address for Solicitor General Verrilli is good, but I would think that Jim and Steve, who are also listed on our service list, will probably want to be e-mailed in addition because our "supremectbriefs" address gets checked a couple of times a day and things forwarded out, so there's quite a delay sometimes.

MR. WALLACE: This is Chad Wallace for Colorado. I can circulate to the parties, in addition, the e-mail address

Also, as far as Stuart's comment regarding the date of service, which I think is a good issue to raise, it might be worthwhile to agree that the service date would be the same as that when we e-mail it to the Special Master and it's been docketed within his system.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: That's fine on our end, Counsel. My concern in this whole discussion was to be sure -- first of all, I emphasize that we are perfectly comfortable with electronic filing and electronic service, but I wanted to be sure that any case management order I entered accommodated the needs of the parties. So I'm simply listening to see what the parties prefer.

If I'm hearing everybody correctly, the consensus seems to be electronic service is appropriate, with the date of service deemed to be the date it's filed with the Special Master and docketed on the record with -- again, if I'm hearing you correctly -- one hard copy to be served on each party. Does that fairly capture a consensus?

MS. BOND: Your Honor, Sarah Bond for New Mexico.

That's fine for New Mexico. I just have one question and that is I would like to get a clarification of Mr. McFarlane's e-mail. I see an E on the end of his name in the snail mail address, but there is no E on the end of his name in the e-mail address. I wanted to make sure there wasn't an error in that e-mail address.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Well, let me address that more broadly, Ms. Bond. May I request the parties submit to me a list of e-mail addresses of those on whom you request service to be made by other parties and those on whom you request the Court provide service of any orders the Court issues as well. I believe that would make life easier for everybody.

MR. MACFARLANE: Your Honor, this is Stephen

Macfarlane for the United States. We will do that, and I do note that the e-mail address that's on the service list for me is not the one that should be used. We will correct that.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: My apologies to everyone if we have any of these e-mails wrong. This is our opportunity to get them right.

MR. DUBOIS: This is Jim Dubois. I think I have sent an updated list and a proper e-mail to Anne. Hopefully we have got it, but we will make sure that they are correct and that everybody has it.

THE COURT: Right. Anne would be our paralegal, Anne Provosty.

MR. DUBOIS: Yes. Sorry.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Great. Anything else about service?

Moving on to the next agenda item, we have set up the docket. I assume you have all had a look at it. We actually had a couple of glitches with it when we first set it up. I just wanted to make sure everybody knows where it is and has seen it. Let me know if you have any problems with using it so we can alert our IT people to get any problems fixed.

As to venue for conferences and other proceedings, the instructions I received from the Supreme Court indicated that the Court prefers conferences and proceedings to be held in a federal courthouse, preferably in a circuit courthouse. I will report to you that I have made arrangements with the Fifth Circuit here in New Orleans and also with the Eastern District of Louisiana for use of conference rooms or courtrooms as we may need them.

I would like to take this opportunity to express on the record my appreciation for the cooperation and support I have had from the Fifth Circuit and also from the Eastern District. We are actually sitting in a conference room at the Eastern District of Louisiana today. My special thanks to Ms. Toni Tusa, who is the court reporter, who is a regular court reporter at the Eastern District of Louisiana whose work we are all familiar with. She is highly qualified. We are very happy to have her services.

If/when we do have conferences and proceedings, I would anticipate those being here in New Orleans. It's not a bad town to visit. There are lots of hotels nearby. I'm looking out the window at the Fifth Circuit. The two buildings are next door to each other. So whichever one we choose, it's essentially the same spot. Any comments about that?

MR. DUBOIS: This is Jim Dubois. That's fine with the United States.

MR. SOMACH: Yes. That works fine for the State of Texas, too, Your Honor. This is Stuart Somach.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Great.

MS. BOND: Sarah Bond. That's fine for New Mexico as well.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Thanks, Counsel.

Moving on, let me address New Mexico's motion to dismiss the complaints of Texas and the United States. We are working on that. The process I anticipate here is that once we have a draft opinion, I would anticipate circulating that among the parties and inviting letter briefs from the parties to comment on the opinion. After we have adjusted any comments the parties may offer, at that point we will issue an interim report on it.

That's the status. We are working on that motion diligently, I can assure you, and will let you have the draft opinion as soon as we have got one.

MS. BOND: Your Honor, this is Sarah Bond for New Mexico. We were hoping that we would be allowed to present oral argument to the Special Master on that motion.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Ms. Bond, I appreciate that. My thought at this time is that oral argument will not be necessary. If I change my mind, I will alert the parties and arrange for a date. Your request is noted. I will table it for the moment.

MS. BOND: Thank you.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: You're welcome.

I note that there's a motion for leave to intervene filed by the Elephant Butte Irrigation District. It was filed in December. Oppositions are due January 29. If no opposition is filed, I guess it's possible the Supreme Court could just grant it. According to what I have seen happen in other special master matters, if there is opposition, it's possible the Court will refer that motion to us as well.

I'm curious. Have any of the parties filed or planning to file oppositions?

MS. BOND: Yes, Your Honor. New Mexico will be filing an opposition. This is Sarah Bond. We represent our citizens and we think there is no precedent for the Court to allow one of its citizens who we represent parens patriae to intervene in a case like this. It's an original action on a compact to which we bind our citizens under Hinderlider.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Okay.

MR. SOMACH: Your Honor, this is Stuart Somach for the State of Texas. We will be opposing also. My understanding is that the date that we are required to file by is January 29.

My assumption is that we will file as normally with the Court but that we will also provide copies of what we file to you. I just want to make sure that that's what your expectation is.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Yes, Mr. Somach, that's fine.

Again, I note that, for example, in Alaska v. United States there was a similar situation. A motion to intervene was filed while there was a motion to dismiss pending. In that matter, after the motion to dismiss was briefed, the Court referred the motion to intervene to the special master. So it's reasonable to guess that the Court may do the same thing here. Either way, it would have to be ruled on and will have some impact on what happens here.

MR. DUBOIS: Your Honor, this is Jim Dubois. The United States is going to be opposing as well. I'm just letting you know.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Thank you. That gives us a pretty good idea of what's going on with that motion.

MR. WALLACE: Your Honor, this is Chad Wallace. Do I understand correctly that it is your understanding that the Supreme Court is entertaining the motion even though it has deferred the case to you prior to Elephant Butte Irrigation District filing that motion?

THE SPECIAL MASTER: No, Mr. Wallace. I don't know exactly what the Court is going to do. Of course, it can do whatever it wants.

I note that in Alaska v. United States, for example, there was a similar procedural posture. In that matter, once the motion to dismiss was fully briefed, then at that point the Court referred the motion to the special master. I guess it's reasonable to believe the Court would do the same thing here, but I don't really know what they are going to do.

Knowing that there's significant opposition tells me at a minimum that it's not going to be granted by the Court itself as unopposed. It's a live motion that will have to be dealt with. My guess is they will kick it to me to deal with, which is fine, but we will cross that bridge when we get to it. I don't actually know what the Court is going to do. I don't have any preconceptions about that, just observations about what's happened in similar situations in other matters.

Anything else about the motion to intervene?

Counsel, is anybody aware of any other possible intervenors in the case?

MR. SOMACH: This is Stuart Somach again, Your Honor, for the State of Texas. Yes, I have had conversations with other parties in Texas, particularly the irrigation district, EP No. 1, and the City of El Paso, who are contemplating intervention, and that raises a subsidiary question -- I just wanted to make certain -- and that is when we have these telephone conversation whether or not other parties -- I noticed that Las Cruces and Pecan Growers were on the call. I'm feeling a little guilty because I discouraged the City of El Paso and other Texas entities from joining the call because I wasn't aware entirely of the process. I don't want to unilaterally keep them off a call that is open to other parties.

The two comments I have is I am aware that there will be some Texas intervention papers that will probably be filed. Number two is simply trying to get an understanding on a conference call like this whether it's open to the public generally or whether there's some limited thought on who should be participating.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Mr. Somach, that's a good question. Thank you for raising it. My understanding is that it's sort of a delicate balance. On the one hand, these are open proceedings, theoretically open to the public. On the other hand, my understanding of what the practice has been in other special master matters is I would appreciate any nonparty who wishes to participate to let us know so we can greenlight that. I don't anticipate denying anyone the right to listen in, but please contact us in advance and advise us of your desire to participate as a nonspeaking participant.

MR. STEIN: Your Honor, this is Jay Stein representing the City of Las Cruces, New Mexico.

THE COURT: Right. Okay. Thank you, Mr. Stein.

Anything else about possible intervenors or the participation of nonparties in these calls? Any other questions or concerns before we move on?

With respect to a comprehensive case management plan, Counsel, let me give you my preliminary thoughts on it. Counsel, when I'm not doing this, I'm doing what all of you are doing, which is to say I'm a practicing lawyer as a litigator. Certainly I have often been in a situation where I have been involved in a lawsuit where there was a motion pending before the judge that would have a big impact on the management or conduct of the case I was involved in.

Classically, you're going to trial and there's a summary judgment motion pending and you think, Golly, if he or she would only rule on that motion, either I wouldn't have to go to trial or it would significantly shape discovery or trial prep or anything like that. Moreover, as a second point, I'm very sensitive about wasting your time and your clients'

I am disinclined at this point to ask you to prepare a comprehensive case management plan for several reasons:

First, what I do with respect to the pending motion to dismiss filed by New Mexico will at a minimum affect the discovery that the parties may need to conduct;

Second, any interim report that I issue is subject to challenge by the parties and review, modification, adoption by the Supreme Court; and Third, there's at least one motion to intervene pending.

So in my mind those factors and my experience as a litigator lead me to think that the better course of action is not to ask you to prepare a case management plan at this time, but I particularly wanted to open it up and I'm open to your thoughts on that point. If everybody says, "Oh, yeah, we want to start working on one right away," I'm not going to stand in the way, but I also don't want to waste your time or waste your clients' resources. The floor is open.

MR. SOMACH: Well, Your Honor, this is Stuart Somach again. I think our interest would be -- and, of course, this would be the assumption that the case is not dismissed -- that we get the case at issue as quickly as possible. So I think that certainly delaying the preparation of a case management plan is not a bad thing to do.

I would suggest that if the Court denies the motion to dismiss, in fact, answers would have to be filed, cross complaints presumably could be filed, and putting that on a timeline that would maybe run parallel with the motion to dismiss — this assumes, of course, that the case is not dismissed — would probably get us at issue as quickly as possible and allow us to really sit down and do a case management plan that contemplated not just the complaints by the United States and the State of Texas but whatever responsive pleadings were filed by New Mexico, Colorado, and presumably whomever is intervening if intervention is allowed.

So that would be where we would like to see, I think, the emphasis at this point, is getting ourselves at issue so we know what the case looks like and at that point can sit down and put together a comprehensive case management plan.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Mr. Somach, let me make sure I understand. Your suggestion is that once the motion to dismiss would be ruled on, assuming one or more parties would be left standing after ruling on such a motion, then you would like us to order a schedule for answers, counterclaims, and the like, and that the schedule for the preparation of the case management plan be run parallel with those deadlines. Is that correct?

MR. SOMACH: Yes, Your Honor.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Any other comments?

MS. We do think that it's appropriate, especially in light of our not having oral argument on motions in the first instance, of having the exceptions filed and having enough time to work through that decision effectively, but we have no opposition to the Court setting parallel timeframes to file other papers in the case.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Thank you, Ms. Bond. not anticipate doing that without conferring with the parties again to make sure that the schedule was reasonable and workable for everyone.

Again, if I'm reading the consensus correctly, that won't happen until the motions to dismiss are ruled on, which is to say until the interim report is issued, if I'm reading everyone correctly.

MR. SOMACH: Yes, I will clarify. I was thinking the interim report.

This is Jim Dubois. MR. DUBOIS: I quess I understood Ms. Bond to say after the exceptions had been heard, that the case management plan would be instituted after that, so that's why I think that we need to make sure we are on the same page.

Your Honor, this is Sarah Bond from MS. BOND: New Mexico. We are happy to go along with what the other parties wish to do. If they want to do it after the initial report is issued, that's fine, so long as we have enough time to file our exceptions and also prepare our counterclaims and claims on any claims remaining. If the Court confers with the parties, I'm sure we will be able to work something out.

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Yes. That's right, Ms. Bond.

Let me make clear that what I anticipate doing is convening another conference upon the issuance of the interim report so that the parties can work with me on preparing an appropriate schedule both for further pleadings and for a case management plan. Is that fair, Counsel?

THE SPECIAL MASTER: Thank you, Counsel. I have on the agenda.

I'm reluctant to set another conference at this time because it seems to me the big task we have to accomplish is dealing with New Mexico's motion to dismiss. It seems to us that nearly everything is going to depend on how that goes So I'm kind of reluctant at this point to even try to set a next conference. I'm open to do that if the parties would like me to, just to sort of check in with each other and see what's going on. I'm open, Counsel. What are your thoughts?

MR. SOMACH: This is Stuart Somach again, Your Honor. No, I think your thinking is right, that setting up something after the motion to dismiss is probably the most prudent thing to do.

> THE SPECIAL MASTER: Thank you.

MR. DUBOIS: Your Honor, this is Jim Dubois. understand it, there's going to be a draft of your interim report, and then you will probably ask for letter briefs and give us a timetable for that, and then issue the interim report?
